How to use this DIRECTORY

This Directory summarizes information collected on office and industrial-sector businesses in York Region. Information on retail and personal services, restaurants and recreational facilities, healthcare and public administration is not included in this Directory, but is available for purchase in electronic form or on the internet. Businesses are listed by North American Industrial Classification (NAIC) code, which was adopted by Statistics Canada in 1998 to replace the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) system.

The Directory is primarily based on information collected from the 2005 York Region Employment Survey, a door-to-door survey conducted with businesses located in York Region between May and August, 2005. Where data could not be updated for a particular business, data was supplemented with the most recent information available from previous surveys. As a result, not all records are up-to-date. In the individual business record listing, the date the business listing was last changed is indicated.

FINDING A BUSINESS

To find a business by industry type, first consult the summary of NAIC codes by industry sector at the beginning of the directory. Then look up the business alphabetically within the appropriate NAIC code.

To search for information on a business whose name you already know, consult the alphabetic index listing at the back of this publication. The index will direct you to the NAIC code under which the full business entry is listed.

The business listings indicate the name of the company, the address, including street number, street name, suite/unit number, municipality, postal code, telephone number and an employee range (e.g. 1-4, 5-9, 10-49, 50-99, 100-499, 500-999, 1,000+). Where available, contact names, titles, e-mail and Internet addresses are also provided.

YORK REGION

One of Canada's Leading Corporate Communities!

Business and people are moving to take advantage of a Region that works! A highly-educated workforce, an ample supply of available land, a variety of living options and prime recreational opportunities make York Region the Region of choice for residents and employers alike.

York Region is one of the fastest growing regions in Canada and is strategically located in the heart of the Greater Toronto Area (GTA), Canada's major commercial and industrial centre. The Region is comprised of nine area municipalities totalling 915,000 people as of year-end 2005 and covering 1,776 square kilometres (686 square miles), stretching from Steeles Avenue in the south to Lake Simcoe and the Holland Marsh in the north.

GTA EMPLOYMENT DISTRIBUTION
1986 AND 2001

Source: Statistics Canada

Business & Employment Overview

Recent business and employment statistics indicate that York Region is increasingly becoming the location of choice for business across the GTA. Between 1986 and 2001, York Region's share of GTA employment increased from 8% to 15%.

By 2005, there were an estimated 450,000 people working in York Region, including home and farm-based jobs. This represents an annual average employment increase of 5.2% between 1998 and 2005. This compares with an average annual population growth rate of 5.2% between 1998 and 2005 in York Region.

In addition, a number of businesses expressed their confidence in York Region by expanding or developing new facilities. Industrial, commercial and institutional building permits reached $916 million in 2005. As of 2005, there were an estimated 28,000 businesses in York Region, up from 21,000 in 1998. While the Region is host to a number of large international firms, small firms dominate the business landscape, with over 80% of businesses employing less than 20 workers. This large number of small firms indicates a strong entrepreneurial spirit in the Region.

Employment by job type has remained relatively steady since 1998, with full-time employment accounting for approximately 80% of jobs in York Region in 2005. This stability reflects the overall health of the York Region labour market. The large proportion of full-time jobs is also encouraging from the standpoint that these jobs are typically more stable and higher paying than their part-time counterparts.

Demographic Trends

Since the creation of York Region in 1971, the population has increased dramatically from 169,000 persons to approximately 915,000 in 2005. By the year 2031, the Province has forecasted that over 1.5 million people and 780,000 jobs will be located in York Region.

Since 2001, York Region has grown at an annual average rate of approximately 35,000 people per year. York Region's rapid population growth is partially due to its strategic location north of the City of Toronto. Benefiting from an excellent transportation network, a high quality of life and available land space, York Region has become a major growth area of the Greater Toronto Area (GTA).

Strong growth in the population and employment sectors in York Region over the past 20 years has resulted in a large increase in the demand for housing during the same period. In 1981 there were 77,000 households in York Region. By 2005, this figure had risen to 273,358, a 255% increase. By 2031, York Region will have an estimated 500,000 households.

Relative to the GTA and Canada, York Region's population is younger. This is partially due to the large proportion of the population between the ages of 37 and 56 years of age. These "baby boomers" made up 32.9% of the Region's population in 2003, compared with only 30.8% of the overall population at the GTA and national level.

York Region's residents are well educated, with 66.4% of adults over 20 in 2001 recording some form of post-secondary education. This is higher than both the national and provincial averages, which stood at 58.2% and 60.1% respectively. This high rate of well-educated residents provides Regional employers with an ample supply of skilled workers.

The youthful, well-educated workforce is a positive feature for businesses in York Region, ensuring a good labour supply for years to come.
